Hello St. Aloysius Students and Parents,

I am thrilled to be joining the St. Aloysius team this January. It feels a little like coming home to me since I worked here as a teacher's assistant 14 years ago!

I want to take a moment and give you some background and introduction so we can hit the ground learning in January. I grew up in Maryland, just outside of Washington, DC. I earned my bachelors in education at Boston College (also the Eagles!) and moved to Louisville for graduate school at Spalding University. In 2015, I earned my Rank I in Learning Differences at Bellarmine University. I spent 5 years teaching fifth grade and four years as the Resource Teacher at St. Nicholas Academy. For the past two years, I have been home with my wonderful twin babies who will be turning 2 at the end of December.

I am looking forward to returning to the classroom and diving into some great books together! If you need to contact me for any reason before January, my school email is kjordan@staloyuspwv.org and I will begin checking it next week.

Have a wonderful holiday season,

Mrs. Katie Jordan
